OCTOBER 15-16, 2011

Hosted by:

ASIA PACIFIC SIMULATION IN NURSING EDUCATION CONFERENCE

Engaging Learners to Become Great Nurses

METI, Nilai University College and Kinetik Edar are pleased to announce the first annual Asia Pacific Simulation in Nursing Education Conference, a two-day event for nursing educators interested in medical simulation and education.

Join METI's network of expert patient simulation educators as they present hands-on demonstrations, interactive clinical scenarios, the latest in simulation research and creative ideas for your classroom.

Speakers will include METI Vice-President Thomas J. Doyle, Nilai University's Madam Gneswari Subramaniam and many other renowned educators from Malaysia and Asia.

METI, a pioneering developer of medical simulation products since 1996, has implemented its technologies in more than 2,000 leading healthcare institutions in 70 countries worldwide.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This conference is for faculty and instructors who are beginning to incorporate human patient simulation into their nursing curriculum and training sessions.

WHAT ARE THE LEARNING OBJECTIVES FOR THE CONFERENCE?

- Learn how simulation may be used by faculties to deliver comprehensive teaching and assessments
- Acquire the skills necessary to use simulation as a teaching and learning tool
- Understand how medical simulation can be used to develop critical thinking and clinical decision-making
- Network and share ideas with other nursing professionals
